Envy and greed although basic to ceratain human beings should not be the determining factor for MICRSOFT by tring to stymie it s creativity. Time for government regulators to use common sense as we go head on with international competition that would certainly be jumping for joy if they landed MSFT to bolster their economy and work force. By the downsizing of industry with its job creating opportunities we are witnessing layoffs that will be impacting our tax base which sustains all the services that every one thinks they are entitled to. Paying lawyers to practice their trade is what is compounding our problems with their skillful tactics manipulating the system and adding their costs to companies that pass the costs on to us consumers and taxpayers
